Thinking Out Loud

By H. M. L.

Introduced into the Congressional Record the other day by Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, was the following statement by Wadsworth W. Mount, assistant director of research of the Merchant's association of New York:

As long as the Government can spend all the money it wants to, over and above what it takes in for taxes, merely by printing Government bonds, selling these to the banks, and then drawing checks against them, how can we ever hope to stop extravagant Government spending?

And when the Government spends these billions in such ways that private citizens do not know which way to turn to make money, and therefore have comparatively little need to borrow from the banks on safe terms, where else can banks invest your money on deposit but in Government bonds?

A banker knows that when the United States Government prints a Government bond it says in effect that the Government will tax the people of the United States to make it good. He knows, therefore, that Government bonds are the soundest security in the country, just so long as we do not issue too many of them and have inflation.

Before the Government started spending several billions more each year than it took in from taxes, the savings banks, for instance, could safely lend your money, largely to people who wanted to spend it for private or business uses, at a high enough rate of interest to cover their expenses and pay you 4 per cent. Under present conditions, however, one of the few remaining safe places to invest bank funds is in Government bonds. Therefore, as the interest rate on long term Treasury bonds has been lowered until their average yield is now approximately 2¼ per cent ,at present about all the savings banks can safely get for the use of your money is enough to provide for necessary expenses and reserves and pay you only 2 per cent or even less on your deposits.

The Treasury has just announced that to pay off some $426,000,000 of oustanding obligations which are due in September and now carry an interest rate of 1 3/8 per cent it will offer in exchange new "notes" due in 5 years which will pay only three-fourths of 1 per cent.

A New York investment firm recently showed that Treasury obligations maturing in a little more than 2 years now afford a yield of only one one-hundredth of 1 per cent. At this rate of return, it was pointed out that "an investor would have to hold more than $144,000 par value to provide an income sufficient to buy his morning newspaper each day; he would have to hold $558,000 to provide enough funds to buy a daily package of cigarettes." As to the average interest rate on all Federal obligations is lowered, those having money in savings accounts and insurance policies which represend their personality saved "social security" have their interest earnings also reduced, as a large part of such funds are invested in Government bonds.

This means, therefore, that it will take you longer to pay for your life insurance, as the annual dividends will be less or the premiums will be more.

Some people think that only the taxpayers of future generations will have to pay for the present Government spending. However, if you own a savings bank account you are paying right now for the increased national debt by getting one-half or less of the amount of interest you used to receive, and the trend is still downward.

This means then that if, for example, you are trying to put in the savings bank enough money to give you $2,000 a year income, you will now have to save $100,000 or more, where when savings banks were able to invest your money safely and pay you 4 per cent you would only have had to save $50,000 to get this same income.

Everyone in the nation has to pay one way or another for the money our Government officials are instructed to spend. Some pay taxes directly, but everyone pays indirectly for all Government services. The Government has nothing to give to the people except what it gets from the people."

F. F. Cassidy, manager of the Alpha Store at Nevada City, spent yesterday in Alleghany on business.

MINERS BREAK THROUGH TO OLD RUBY WORKINGS

The Saturday afternoon shift of the Ruby mine broke into the old workings of the Guatamala mine, L. L. Huesldonk, superintendent of the mine, reported that no damage was done by the water that was draining from the old tunnel. Although the Saturday night shift did not go to work due to the drainage which was coming out to the extent of between five and six thousand gallons a minute Sunday afternoon the Sunday shift was back at work. Huelsdonk said that they expected for some time to break into the old workings.

They had been going by old maps that were available and the old map did not show the particular tunnel that was broken into by the Saturday crew. Extra long fuse was being used by the crew for safety reasons Huelsdonk reported.

Huelsdonk said Sunday that he had been all through the old Guatamala workings and that the old timbers in the mine were in perfect condition being under water since the mine was stopped in 1860. He said that the Ruby has been working on the old City of Six channel which in the early days proved to be very rich.

He said he expects to work the old Guatamala into the Golden Bear which is understood to have left a large piece of channel. He said that the workings of the Golden Bear were very rich at this point running between $10 and $20 a car. He said that the piece of channel that was being worked in the Ruby mine at the present time was fair.

One of the things that came out in the rush of water was an old bamboo fishing pole and a tin can bearing the printing of the Mission Chemical Wax company.

The mine is working 31 men at the present time. It is owned by C. L. Best and is understood to have had a good production record during the past several years of operation.

ALPHA STORES MAKES ROOM FOR MORE BUSINESS

Painters are busily employed at the Alpha Stores Ltd., and it will be fully two weeks before many changes and contemplated improvements will be made. Robert Steger and sons have completed mezzanine floor which will give about twice the former space for furniture. New shelving has been built for paints; a large window put in on the east side, and the office will be moved back to the northeast corner for convenience and additional light. Space will be made where the office is now located for the stove, refrigerators and range department. Mrs. Virginia Ghidotti went to San Francisco Saturday and returned Tuesday evening from atteending market week.

BOLTON'S OPEN IN NEW STORE MONDAY MORN

Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Bolton will complete moving their stock from the old site on Pine street to their newly renovated store in the Powell Building this week and be ready for business Monday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Bolton conducted a shoe store in Napa before coming to Nevada City and a variety store was a new venture to them. They opened the store in the Masonic building sixteen years ago this coming March 17.

Painters are finishing painting of the interior furnishings of the new store a light gray with red trimmings. The walls are a cream color, giving plenty of light for the stock. A neat office has been built an a mezzanine floor in the rear of the building.

George Falmbigl and John Webster motored to the veterans hospital at Livermore recently to visit Fred Yost a local man who is there for treatment for an injured arm. They found Yost much improved in health and in good spirits.

BUSINESS CENSUS OF NEV. CITY BEGINS SOON

Joseph W. Day, census enumerator of business firms for the county, stated yesterday that he would have finished his enumeration of business houses in the rural areas and in Truckee and would next proceed to take the business census of Nevada City. He will then proceed to Grass Valley. The deadline for business census returns is March 30.

Census enumeration of population will begin April 1 and last for 30 days.

QUAKE GENTLY ROCKS NEV. CITY

Windows rattled and floor joists creaked shortly after midnight yesterday morning when a temblor gently rocked an area in which Nevada City, Grass Valley, Auburn, Sacramento, Marysville, Oroville and Chico, were included.

Reports from the valley cities indicated but little damage, though some householders fled their homes in their night clothing. In Nevada City two shocks were reported, one at 12:10 a. m. and a second and lesser shock at 3 a. m.

CATS WHISKERS PLACER YIELDS $1000 TO OWNER

Harry Fields, who has been working the Cat's Whiskers property above Downieville, reported this week that since operations have been started at the property 25 yards of gravel have been washed returning $1000 to the owner, Mrs Jeannette Donnely.

This piece of property was originally purchased for a summer home by Mrs. Donnely. Fields who is working for her uncovered a rich gravel channel that is being sluiced by Fields who has installed a system of riffles and screens.

Fields intends to run two tunnels into the channel starting this week to test the extent of the ore body, and if it proves to be large enough to justify the expense, more equipment will be added to speed up the process of recovery.

It is the belief of Fields that the mine was abandoned by some man in the early days, probably about the time of the Civil War. He believes that the operator of the property left, and might have been killed or for some reason never returned to work the balance of the gravel. The gold that has been recovered so far is very coarse a number of these pieces being as large as a pea.

Fields reports that no claims are now available in Secret Canyon, the place of his gravel deposit. He says that every available claim in the canyon has been located since word of his strike has been published.

Ken Latta reports that he is working a claim above Fields and last week he had several large nuggets that he said were taken from his property in Secret Canyon. The pieces were as large as a peanut.

GOLD FLAT EARLY DAY TEACHER IS CALLED TO REST

Miss Susie Green, who was born in Benecia, February 27, 1856, died at her home on the lower Grass Valley road at 10:55 a. m. yesterday. She had resided in the home she passed away in about 80 years and was highly esteemed. Miss Green graduated from the Gold Flat school, became a teacher and was employed at a school on Banner Mountain until 1920. Since that time she had been custodian of the Gold Flat school, until a week ago when she became ill.

Left to mourn her passing is a nephew, Will Green, who resided with her and two nieces, Mrs. Harold Nolan of Grass Valley and Mrs. William Longe, Modesto. Funeral services will be held in St. Canice Catholic church Saturday at 10 o'clock with Father P. J. O'Reilly officiating. Interment will be made in the family plot in the Catholic cemetery. Holmes Funeral Home has charge of funeral arrangements.

SCOOP THURMAN ON IMPORTANT COMMITTEES

By "SCOOP" THURMAN
Assemblyman

Your assemblyman was honored last week by the new speaker, Gordon Garland, by being appointed chairman of the mines and mining committee of the lower house. This committee is one of the most importance to the Sixth Assembly District. The writer was also appointed a member of the ways and means committee which is one of the two most important committees. We were also reappointed to membership on the following other committees on which we served during the regular session: Fish and game, conservation, state grounds and parks and public charities and corrections.

This week will see the relief legislation debated on the floor of the lower house. The relief appropriation bill and other relief legislation including the bill to return the administration of relief to the counties will no doubt take up a good part of the week inasmuch as they are highly controversial. While the Senate passed the bill which would return administration to the counties, in the lower house there is quite a division of thought. Right now we believe that a majority of the members favor the return of relief to the counties but even if the bill does pass both houses there is still the question as to whether the governor will sign it. And if he should veto the bill it will require a two thirds vote to over ride the veto. However the return of relief to the counties will depend somewhat on the report that Assemblyman Sam Yorty and his committee bring back from Los Angeles county where they have been investigating communism in relief. Should their report show definitely that communists are controlling the administration of relief in that county, those who favor the return to the counties will have added argument in their favor.

Assemblyman Yorty, a liberal Democrat, astounded the members of the Assembly last Thursday when he took the floor and made a speech attacking communism in SRA and at the same time stated that communists are ruining his party. Coming as it did from one who has always been considered a most radical liberal, his talk was most enlightening. Assemblyman Jack Tenney also a liberal Democrat supported Yorty in a similar talk.

To definitely realize that the communists are leaders of the pressure groups which would force a heavy relief load on the taxpayers, one has but to read The Peoples World, alleged communist newspaper of San Francisco. Here is a headline in this radical paper, a copy of which we have before us as we write these lines: "COMMUNISTS LASH RELIEF SLASHES." It is a well known fact that the leader of the Workers Alliance in this state is a communist. And the WA, if you do not know it, is one of the pressure groups which continually demands large appropriations for relief.

Speaking of the return of relief to the counties here is a sample telegram we received this week from a citizen of the district: "Just a word to say we hope the Assembly passes Senate Bill 50 to return the control of relief to the counties where needed relief and not politics will govern the spending of our tax money."

In our mail on the same day we received a letter from one of the Democratic County Central Committees opposing the return of relief to the counties. And in the same mail we received a letter from the Farm Bureau of the same county urging that we vote in favor of the bill to return relief to the various counties. The Farm Bureau also went on record favoring the making of the relief rolls public.

Both the grand jury of Placer County and of Nevada County, the two largest counties in the Sixth Assembly District have recommended the return of relief to the counties. It is a big question and one which will require considerable thought by the members of the legislature.

The writer has always believed that if the counties administered relief there would be less chiseling and the communists and other pressure groups would not get to first base in their attempt to make relief almost unbearable for the taxpayers.

We desire at this time also to inform the elderly citizens that we are a co-author on two bills which have as their purpose the eliminating of the property lien on old age pensions. We believe that this legislation will be approved and the lien cause eliminated.

FIRE DEPARTMENT HAS A BUSY TWO DAYS

Nevada City firemen had a busy time the past two days responding to fire alarms. While extinguishing the fire at the Dr. David Reeder house on the Red Dog road Wednesday they received a call to go to Glenbrook to put out a fire at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. Rusk. At nine o'clock that evening they were called to the Sierra Hotel in Nevada City to extinguish a chimney fire. Yesterday forenoon a call came in from the home of Mrs. Florence Evans at the foot of Boulder street. There seemed to be a chimney fire and as it became overheated the blaze spread to the roof. Firemen responded and extinguished it at once. The Reeder and Rusk houses were a total loss but the firemen did all in their power to control them but the calls came too late.

SCOUTS GUESTS OF ROTARY CLUB

Rudolph Albrecht, district Y. M. C. A. supervisor with headquarters at Marysville, was the speaker at yesterday's Rotary luncheon. Guests of the club were Scout Masters Cecil Klee and Albert Pratti, Scout Executive Edgar Williams, Judge Geo. L. Jones of the regional scout council, and five scout patrol leaders, assistant scout masters and local members of the scout council, including Dr. C. W. Chapman, recently honored by the regional council for twenty five years devoted service in scouting.

Albrecht's address was directed alternately to Rotary members and to the Boy Scouts. Since his life work is among boys and young men he has had many moving experiences in redeeming boys that were thought to be beyond redemption. He told of one boy, who had come out to this state from some small village in Pennsylvania with fifty dollars, that he had earned before his departure. This boy was fifteen years old he had earned the money in a Pennsylvania coal mine. Arrived in a California city, he was picked up as a suspicious character, apparently because he had fifty dollars of his own money in his pockets. Albrecht, convinced that the boy was telling the truth, obtained his release and found him a job. Today the boy is a man and holds an important post of responsibility in a big financial institution.

The boy's story was one of a broken home. His father, addicted to drink, frightfully abused his mother until she died. His father married a second time. The boy's step mother became fond of him, and did all she could to rear the boy decently. His father, however, began to beat his second wife, and the boy despairing of a chance at a decent living, took his savings and came out to California, only to run afoul of the police before he had a chance to find a job.

Mr. Albrecht stressed the need of training, character and leadership among the boys of today. Especially in these days, he said, every boy needs these things while growing to manhood. The "man and boy" combination, the man sharing the boy's problems and joys, and the boy looking to the man for companionship, but the man needs the boy still more. He urged all Rotary members to give more time and thought to the boys. For the little they put into scouting and aid to young folks, he declared, the results are astounding and splendid.

NEAL MINEAR PASSES

Friends in Nevada City received the message of the death of Neal Minear in Sacramento Monday morning. He died from injuries received when struck by an automobile. The funeral services were held in Redding Wednesday. Minear resided on Grove street for two years with his mother leaving several months ago to make his home in Sacramento.

TERMS OF THREE COUNCILMEN TO EXPIRE SOON

The terms of three councilmen expire this year, and the city council last night set Tuesday, April 9, as municipal election day. Polling places will be the city hall and the fire house on Main street.

The councilmen whose terms expire are James Penrose, Charles Leiter and Frank Davies.

Two representatives from the Women's Civic Club appeared before the council to ask for the use of the library basement as a meeting place. The council suggested that one of the fire houses would be more suitable and deferred any definite action until it could be investigated.

Members of Banner Mountain Post, V. F. W. asked that the practice of giving free peddler's licenses to any veteran that comes into the city be discontinued, since in a great many cases it is being made a racket. They said that a law prohibited everyone but disabled veterans from getting the licenses. The matter will be referred to the city attorney, Frank Finnegan.

By unanimous vote the council decided to have timber removed from near the airport, thus eliminating a dangerous hazard to the flyers.

The following bills were ordered paid:

That Telephone Incident

California political news these days is too big to hold. It spilled over the borders last week and splashed the front pages of every big Eastern newspaper, when Gordon Garland, newly elected Speaker of the State Assembly, reached down and ripped out the direct telephone line between his rostrum and the Governor's office!

That act shocked administration leaders, delighted the gallery and reminded the State and nation of an American principle too long ignored and too nearly forgotten: that the "check and balance" system of our three branches of government—legislative, executive and judicial—vests its control in the branches themselves, none to be dominated or controlled by any other.

Uprooting of the direct wire to the Governor's desk symbolically ended a flagrant violation of that principle. Background for the drama reviewed in the press of the nation was laid last session when Assemblyman Garland followed the dictates of his Tulare County constituents and voted for water instead of power—when the Governor was demanding powerization of the Central Valley Water Project. Unable to regiment Garland's vote, Governor Olson proclaimed his "purge" and campaigned personally to accomplish it.

However, the political "purge" is widely regarded as unfitting in a democracy; Garland's fellow Legislators emphasized the point by unseating Olson's Speaker and replacing him with the Governor's public enemy number one — Gordon Garland. The telephone episode followed. Again, in the present special session, the Governor is insisting on a power proposal similar to that which started the rukus. But indications are strong that the rubber stamp is broken. The Legislators are listening to the voices from back home—and as nearly as can be judged, the voices aren't backing the Governor's power program any more than they are his program of tax increases.

Meanwhile, California has created some top news copy, complete with pictures, indicating a new legislative responsiveness, not to another branch of government, but to the people back home.—Contributed.

Ceilimg On Taxes

The determined fight for economy in the roaring special session of the Legislature, dramatic though it is, seems but the inevitable result of a long-growing conviction on the part of the taxpaying public that a halt to astronomical spending, soaring tax levies, and swelling deficits is long overdue. Translated into action by members of the non-partisan economy bloc is the further conviction that the only practical method for checking bureaucratic spending is to place a steel-ribbed ceiling on taxation.

Senator Jerrold Seawell of Roseville, president pro tem of the Senate, forcefully expressed the economy-bloc view last week: "The tax ceiling must be fixed, and fixed immovably, if this State is to avoid bankruptcy. In the last six years, the tax burden has doubled—rocketing from half a billion dollars to nearly a billion! In face of the fact that unemployment has not been solved and that the relief problem has grown, it is plain, schoolboy arithmetic that the law of diminishing returns has set in. To bleed large and small taxpayers, businessmen and farmers, of a billion dollar in taxes yearly—a sum that would provide industry with the means to employ tens of thousands of employes, increasing purchasing power and speeding recovery—is simply the ancient folly of killing the goose that lays the golden egg. The tax structure is already dangerously top-heavy. Additional levies will drive business to the wall, add to unemployment, increase the need for relief funds, and at the same time further shrivel and industries and enterprises that produce the State's tax money!"

Taxpaying citizens who pay the overhead will agree with the spokesman for the economy bloc—that a halt must now be called on spending, a ceiling placed on taxation. — Contributed.

JUST WONDERIN'

I wonder if dictators change—
So far as I can see,
The present style is just as bad
As those that used to be;
They boast of their divine estate,
Their blood and race and all,
But isn't this the sort of pride
Which goes before a fall?

I wonder if there is any discernable difference between modern dictators and those who ruled and cursed the earth in times long past. To be sure, many ancient tyrants were more intelligent than those who strut upon life's stage today. Alexander for instance, had been well instructed—not that it did him any good; but whether ancient or modern these men of wrath and blood tread the self-same pathway and arrive ultimately at the self-same destination.

I wonder if you have heard the radio presentation of the Laughing Man. It's an illuminating satire in which a certain hilarious person, depicted as living two thousand years hence and under a vastly mproved order of society, reviews the vagaries of our time and place and laughs them out of court. Did you laugh too, as you listened? Wasn't it refreshing to hear our age and generation with all its absurdity, stupidity, insanity and inconsistency, lampooned as it no doubt will be, by members of an improved order of society, living two thousand years hence. Perhaps a reinvigorated sense of humor is what this old world needs.

I wonder if January thirtieth, nineteen forty, will be remembered as the Day of Amazing Contrasts. Across the sea, Herr Hitler, among friends, heavily guarded and to the accompaniment of racuous Hiels and howls, commemorates the day, seven years past, when he popped out of a beer cellar, waved a strange banner and led a once proud nation into bondage. He makes a speech, not in his usual form; indeed it seems like an effort at blowing wind into flapping sails; then, still heavily guarded, he steals away to some secluded retreat —and calls a throat specialist.

Here in America, we, the people join in the celebration of our President's birthday. He too is among friends, he speaks to his people from the Capitol at Washington; but for him there are no special salutes, no servile gestures of abject submission; he is just one of us — just one more American who realizes that this great demonstration of national unity is not so much in his honor as it is for the purpose of establishing an ideal of human service and giving to suffering children the hope of restored health, happiness regained, and useful citizenship in years to come.

The aroused spirit of helpfulness sweeps the nation like a holy flame, north, south, east and west, in great cities and tiny isolated hamlets, joy bells ring and music fills the air; there are sounds of joyous laughter and dancing feet, dimes jingle, dollars march and sweet childish voices chant, "Happy birthday to you, Mr. President, happy birthday to you."

Midnight tip toes across the nation, it seems to pause upon the western hills; a new day comes; but before the last midnight bell rings out, the citizens of a free land raise joyful voices in song—God Bless America, America Our Home.

—A. MERRIAM CONNER.

STEWART AND DIETRICH STAR IN NOVEL FILM

Marlene Dietrich in the role of a frontier entertainer co-stars with lanky James Stewart in Universal's "Destry Rides Again," which opens today at the Nevada Theatre.

One of the season's most unusual pictures, "Destry Rides Again" is a marked departure from Miss Dietrich's recent screen roles. It is said to afford her a characterization greatly similar to her work in "The Blue Angel," the film in which she first attained stardom.

Producer Joe Pasternak, the man responsible for the Deanna Durbin and Gloria Jean successes, has assembled an imposing supporting cast for "Destry Rides Again." The list of players include Mischa Auer, Charles Winninger, Brian Donlevy, Irene Hervey, Una Merkel, Allen Jenkins, Warren Hymer, Samuel S. Hinds, Billy Gilbert and many others.

The picture is frankly a dramatic spectacle of the old west in which hard riding and quick shooting are interspersed with the stirring mob scenes that have filled so many pages in the history of the American frontier.

A highlight of "Destry Rides Again" is an epochal fist-fight between Miss Dietrich and Miss Merkel, with Stewart as the unwitting mediator who draws Marlene's wrath on his own head. The fight was five days in the filming and is rated the feminine counter-part of that historic battle in "The Spoilers."

Father: "Young man, I demand an explanation. What was the idea of kissing my daughter in the dark hallway last night?"

Young Man: "Now that I have seen her by daylight, sir, I wonder myself."

He: "You're thinner."

She: "Yes, I've lost so much that you can count my ribs."

He: "Gosh, thanks."

STATE BAR ASKS FOR 13TH JUROR

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 8. — Instead of the customary even dozen, a thirteenth juror may make his, or her, appearance in California courts trying civil cases.

Possibility of this innovation was seen today in the action of the Board of Governors of the State Bar in requesting its Committee on Administration of Justice to draft a proposed new statute to provide for the additional talesman.

The purpose of the suggested new law, according to Claude Minard, State Bar secretary, would be to provide that a thirteenth, or alternate, juror be chosen to sit with each jury. He would not participate in the final deliberations, however, unless one of the regular twelve became ill or otherwise incapacitated.

The suggestion was placed before the State Bar by Judge Everett C. McKearge of the San Francisco superior court.

"A great amount of injustice and hardship result because of the illness or other indisposition of jurors, which requires a mistrial in the event that the parties do not agree to continue the case with less than twelve jurors," Judge McKearge contended. "I therefore urge the State Bar to make this a part of its legislative program at the next session of the legislature."

The action of the board in requesting the drafting of an appropriate statute to provide for the thirteenth juror is in conformance with the established policy of the State Bar to sponsor changes in laws that will make court procedure more efficient and less costly, Minard pointed out.

Patron—"I'm so hungry I could eat a horse."

Waiter—"Well, sir, you couldn't have come to a better place."

"I hear you and your husband have had some bad reverses."

"He has, but I haven't. He has put everything he owned in my name."

EGG NOODLE RING

The following recipe would be a dainty dish for dinner some cold evening. Six ounces fide egg noodles, cooked until tender in boiled salted water. Drain. One cup milk; three to five eggs; 1 package grated cheese, salt and pepper to taste.

Beat egg yolks slightly; add milk; cheese and seasonings. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites and add the noodles. Place in 8 inch well buttered ring mold, set in pan of water and bake in moderate oven 20 to 30 minutes. Since there are eggs in the recipe it should cook slowly.

REPEAL OF AUTO TOURIST PERMIT SYSTEM URGED

Repeal of the law requiring visiting motorists to obtain non-resident permits was urged today by the California State Automobile Association. The motorists organization issued a statement strongly supporting a repeal measure introduced at the special session of the Legislature by Senator Arthur H. Breed, Jr.

The department of Motor Vehicles and the state advisory committee on motor vehicle legislation are also supporting repeal of the permit law.

Prospect of another record-breaking influx of motor tourist travel to California this year was cited by the automobile association as an important reason for eliminating the permit requirement immediately. Repeal would be a timely gesture of hospitality toward the many visitors who will be attracted by reopening of the exposition on Treasure Island, the motorists organization emphasized.

The permit law was termed by the automobile association "as unnecessary source of irritation to California's rapidly growing motor tourist travel, and a technicality which serves no useful purpose."

Recent abolishment of the border inspection stations of the Department of Motor Vehicles makes repeal of the non-resident permit law a logical step, the association declared.

"California's leadership in bringing about a changed attitude toward the visiting motorist is pecularly fitting," the association statement commented.

"This state has the unpleasant distinction of having been first with many unnecessary restrictions on travel, which spread with retaliatory adoption of similar measures in the other states of the west.

"As California continues with correction of her share in these mistakes, in all probability her neighbors will follow suit, and one un-American system of interstate travel barriers will be ended."

Policeman—"Did the holdup man pull a gun on you?"

Victim—"Yes. He stuck a revolver in my stomach and threatened to blow my brains out."

HAS RELIEF NOW BECOME CAREER FOR INDOLENT?

By CLEM WHITAKER

Is relief a career, or is it still to be considered an emergency rescue service—a helping hand in time of trouble?

That, at bottom, is the basic, all-important question now at issue in the special session of the state legislature.

And the legislature's ultimate answer, it is clearly indicated, will determine whether state taxes, which have more than trebled in six years, will continue to zoom upwards, or whether Governor Olson's new tax proposals will be carried off to the legislative junkyard.

It will also determine, in all probability, whether relief, in California is to become a permanent institution!

Outwardly the major clashes, as the two houses pound into action, seem to revolve around the size of the relief appropriation, radical influences and extravagance in relief administration and the governor's request for $50,000,000 in additional taxes.

Actually, the major bone of contention is whether relief is a career or a stop-gap.

It is the point of conflict between the SRA, which first promulgated the "new philosophy" of relief as a permanent institution, and the economy bloc in the state legislature.

And, to large extent, it is responsible for the bitter clashes between Governor Olson and the legislature. For the governor, although he has had nothing to say, directly, on the subject of "relief careerists," is fighting desperately to save his SRA setup, which is (to say the legislators) dominated by them.

Economy bloc lawmakers, tracing a trend which they insist reveals all too clearly that relief is rapidly becoming a career for many relief recipients, point to the following dollars-and-cents evidence:

Three years ago, the state's relief appropriation totaled $24,211,135. Two years ago it totaled $32,344,021. And now Governor Olson has requested $95,000,000 and has set $65,000,000 as a rock-bottom figure that would place relief clients on such a restricted basis that human suffering would be inevitable.

Target for heavy attack on the part of the economy brigade is the fact that relief costs have doubled and trebled even in face of improving business conditions—with more employment available than at any other period since the depression.

"The facts indicate that relief is no longer considered as temporary aid," asserts Senator Ed Tickle of Carmel, "but is being accepted as a permanent institution. To far too many it is apparently a career in itself. The time has come to serve notice that relief must be given only to the needy, instead of being considered a permanent annuity for the shiftless and indolent."

There are more "pure" legislators—and "pure" lobbyists—at the current session of the state legislature, so it is reported, than at any other session in the history of man. A "pure" legislator, for purposes of identification is one who orders Coca Cola when all his pals are walking on their heels in majestic dignity and inebriety. There are some who credit the new era of legislative purity to advancing old age, stomach ulcers and lack of spending money. But the real low-down, if you must have it, is that serious issues call for clear heads. And this session is serious!

Sounding out sentiment in legislative halls are several runners for Dr. Dewey Anderson, former SRA head-who is likely to be a candidate for the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator against Lieutenant Governor Ellis E. Patterson. If Dr. Anderson tosses his hat into the arena, John Anson Ford, the L. A. supervisor who recently entered the fray, will withdraw and support him, according to the grapevine!

David McCraney, who is attending Stanford University, spent the past week end in Nevada City visiting with his mother, Mrs. O. McCraney and other family members. He was accompanied by three classmates, Ames Fisher, Beverley Hills, Bob Taylor and Jack Finnie, Pueblo, Colo. The group enjoyed snow sports while here.

Mrs.: (Telephoning) "Is my husband at the club?"

Porter: "No, ma'am."

Mrs: "But I haven't told you who I am."

Porter: "Ah knows dat lady, but they ain't nobody's husband heah nevah."

Phil Harding came down from the old Kenton mine property, now a portion of the Oriental mine Thursday and had a badly crushed finger on his right hand treated. Mr. and Mrs. Harding and son and daughter John and Grace, are living at the old Kenton mine headquarters where a boarding house is being conducted for the miners working at the Oriental.

H. E. Bolton, proprietor has spent many hundreds of dollars on the interior, remodeling the new store. New fixtures, glass stock shelves, broad stock counters, and every thing new and brightly painted, feature the new store. Heating equipment has been installed in the basement where abundant space is available for reserve stocks of the many household and decorative goods that Bolton's carries.

In the sixteen years of business life in this community Bolton's has established a large and satisfied clientele, which year after year obtains its many and varied supplies from one of the largest stocks in Nevada County.

This page today expresses the good wishes of business men up and down Broad street on the advent of the variety store in its new location, corner of Pine and Broad, where wide selection of goods in the lower price brackets is available.

Bolton's admirably fills the one vacancy in the Broad street business district and the business community of Nevada City extend on this page their whole hearted congratulations to Harry E. Bolton, on the expansion in his business which has made this change possible, and at the same time, necessary.
